

Dr Rosa Maria Bruno, Assistant Professor, Department of Clinical and Experimental Medicine, University of Pisa, Italy

Rosa Maria Bruno received the degree in Medicine in 2003, the residency in Internal Medicine in 2009 and the PhD in Physiopathology and Clinical Pharmacology in 2013 from the University of Pisa (Italy). She is currently working as Assistant Professor at the Department of Clinical and Experimental Medicine of the University of Pisa (Pisa, Italy). Her main field of research is non-invasive evaluation of functional and structural vascular alterations in individuals with traditional and emerging cardiovascular risk factors. She is also interested in vascular adaptation to high altitude and in autonomic regulation of vascular function.

Contacts: rosamaria.bruno@unipi.it